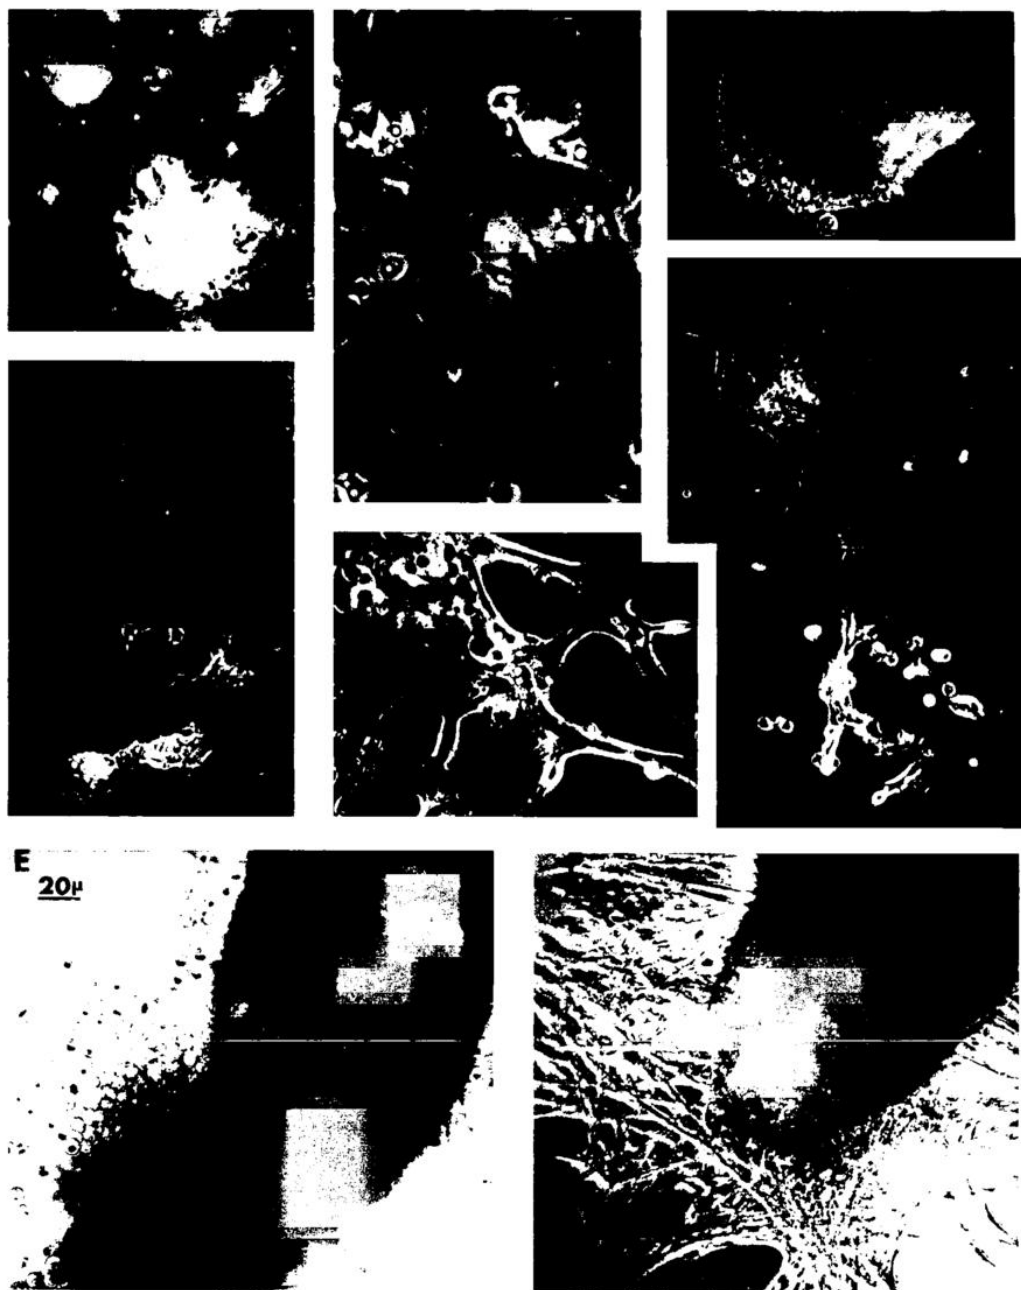

Fig. 1. Dissociated cells or tissue explants from Penaeus vannamei in culture. A and B are cells migrating from epidermal tissue fragments. Based on their morphology and adhesion characteristics, they are believed to be hemocytes. C and D show growths from regeneration buds, after 24 h (C) and after 3 days (D). E and F present different cell growths from ovarian tissue explants. Cells (E) with a large nucleus which leave the fragment and attach more slowly than cells (F) which adhere very quickly and then stay close to the tissue and form a network. G and H are cells obtained after dissociation of ovarian tissue. G shows contact between clumps formed after 10 days of culture.
